ASUS is announcing its new generation of ZenFone smartphones in Taipei tomorrow. Ahead of its official launch, serial leakster Evan Blass is doing what he does best as he shared clear images of ASUS' ZenFone 4 series.

In typical ASUS fashion, the Taiwanese brand will be launching a barrage of models to hit every segment possible. At tomorrow's event, we expect them to announce at least 4 models for our region. This includes the mainstream ZenFone 4, a large battery capacity ZenFone 4 Max and two selfie-centric models – the ZenFone 4 Selfie and ZenFone 4 Selfie Pro.

As seen earlier, the front of the 2017 series looks more consistent as they all appear to have front mounted fingerprint sensors on the home button. Over the rear, it is a mixture of everything you've seen before from a variety of brands.
