

Bintulu - Eating Out

Written by Editor

Monday, 15 November 2010 11:36 -

Enjoy your meal ...

Eating out is definitely Malaysia's growing trend. And not discounting what Bintulu has to offer. You can savour the sumptuous local ethnic dishes of Malay, Chinese or Indian origins in our food outlets or night stalls. Or go for the usual continental cuisines at any of the popular hotels and restaurants. One good tip, try the "umai", raw fish marinated in lemon, chillies and onions, a Melanau traditional delicacy.

You can take a 2 KM drive to Pantai Ria stalls to enjoy the delicious food amidst the cooling sea breeze, an alternative to home cooking. Or alternatively, walk a few steps to the Pasar Utama Bintulu to have a glimpse of Bintulu Town as well as the Malay/Melanau Kampung across the river while enjoying your meal.