

No, I am not talking about cracked anti virus program, I am talking about commercial version which you only need to pay once and enjoy the lifetime updating. Too good to be true?

It is the product of China technology and it claims it can work with other antivirus program without any problem.

Some victims of virus attack suspected the new virus appearance could be released by anti-virus programmers to keep their business going by collecting yearly renewal from users. Though the cost of anti-virus program is not high but when you take into consideration of lifetime purchase and quantity of computers that require such program it might burn a hole in your pocket.

With that in mind, I would like to recommend the following anti-virus program, lofocus, for your consideration. It might not be the best in the market but with the china users trying it I would believe it will become an outstanding anti-virus in the long run.

I would recommend to go for lifetime version as the saving will be tremendous and you can purchase the software ONLINE here
